DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Claude Fike Farm lies along Fike's Run, N of Bear Creek and MD Route 42, E of Friendsville. The farm is located on rising ground and consists of a house, barn and several outbuildings.

The house is a two-story, gable-roofed dwelling, measuring three bays across the facade and one bay on the sides. The facade points NE and a one-story enclosed porch runs the length of the facade. A one-story shed-roofed porch runs the length of the SW elevation.

The house rests on a cut coursed stone foundation and the first floor sills and joists are log. The walls are constructed of vertical planks and are covered with German siding. The windows are two over two sash with plain mitred surrounds. The siding has been painted green and all trim has been painted dark green.

The roof is covered with corrugated metal. There are two brick stove chimneys. One is an interior chimney, located just NW of center; the other is an exterior chimney, located on the SE elevation.

On the SW elevation, the first floor exhibits two doors: one in the central bay and one in the NW bay. The central door has a three-paned transom. The interior of the house is unknown.

West of the house is a frame bank barn, resting on a cinderblock foundation. The walls are covered with vertical boards.

Southwest of the house are several frame outbuildings. Nearest the barn is a corncrib. SW of the corncrib is a small gable-roofed building now used as a chicken house and woodshed. The building measures four bays by two bays, rests on a stone foundation and is covered with red German siding. The windows are two over two sash with cornices and plain board surrounds and the roof is covered with asphalt siding. According to the tenants of the farm, this building was once used as a machine shop.

Southwest of the chicken house is a small gable-roofed building covered with vertical siding. Now used for coal, the building was apparently once used as a carriage house.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This house is a variation of a typical western Maryland type. It lacks the rear kitchen wing so prevalent in this area. The existence of a machine shop and carriage house, as well as the large barn and other outbuildings, indicate that the Fikes, who previously owned this property, were somewhat well-to-do.
